

How to Score Good marks

There are some tips and tricks that will help you a lot in preparation for the board exam. How many subjects, you touch for on daily basis and how much time you give for single subject. What is the way of your preparation these are some points which plays very important role in getting and scoring good marks in the board exams. Let's talk about how to prepare:

Try to study at least four subjects out of total five per day. This will keep your memory sharp for all subjects. Then spend one hour for a single subject. But don't study continuously. Just makes schedule like this.

Study for one hour for a subject dedicatedly. Take a small break. You can talk to your friends but don't discuss about study. You can watch T.V. Also and only that program you like most. You can do anything interesting you like. Then again come to study. And give one hour for second subject and study with full dedication. Don't think about movie, songs, picture and other matters. Just concentrate completely on your study. Then again take a short break. The most important thing that you have to implement in your all time study that you have to study with your full confidence.

Don't get tensed, it can result in forgetting things that you know very well. Keep study with fresh mind every time after you take a break. Studying in morning is very beneficial as compare to late night study. Studying in morning can be quite difficult but soon you will get habitual for that and you will find more interesting study. What is reason for that, in morning your mind keeps fresh and whatever you learn, easily enter your mind provided you are studying with confidence and dedication.